REMINISCENCES.

The recent Christmas reminded me of the Christmas of 1863—hot and rainy. About the 10th day of January it turned off cold, and it looked like freeze we would. Christmas week the daily papers were saying that the ladies in Richmond and Petersburg were going to give the old soldiers a New Year's dinner. We were all glad. I think New Year's day was on Saturday. We looked all day and no wagon came; next day the same thing, no wagon, but the third day, about 2 o'clock, the wagon came and then we were glad. Our regiment had ten companies. Col. Evans saw there was not enough to do the regiment any good, so he took ten strips of paper and wrote fowl on one, pork on one and bread on another, and let the sergeants draw. Our sergeant drew fowl. He had to make six piles so every one could get his share. I got half of a puddle duck and a goose leg. I had one little biscuit in my haversack two days old, all the bread I had. I ate all the duck. It was good and tender, but when I started on my goose leg I found something tough. Several of the boys had some of the goose. One of the boys said his mother knew an old gander once that was seventy-one years old. To judge by being tough and tougher, I would say the one we had was seventy-five and giving on. I ignored all the evening on that leg and soon had it in the shape of a spool with no thread—two big ends and nothing in the middle. I picked up a paper the other day and saw where a Yankee soldier died in Georgia, Macon, ninety-nine years old; had served four years in the War Between the States. I read a history once of the 2nd Massachusetts Regiment. The last days of April or the first days of May, 1861, they went to Washington, drew their arms, guns and accoutrements. They soon got tanked up on obnoxious and mountain dew, and then they did not want Lincoln to draw any more troops, but give them a chance. They were 1,200 strong and could whip every rebel soldier from the Atlantic ocean to the Gulf of Mexico in six months' time. "Give us the title, we are dressed and ready for the ball room!" About that time someone said, "Bring a rebel back with you so we can see what sort of varmint the old rebel soldier is." In September or October, 1864, I got hold of a New York paper showing in big bold letters "The Grand Old 2nd Massachusetts Has Fought Itself to a Vaseline. Has to be disbanded. Twelve hundred strong at first, now 450 killed in battle or died of wounds sleep in soldiers' graves; 430 disabled—one leg, one arm or one eye—not fit for service, had to be discharged." Some over two-thirds gone and no rebel captured yet. I don't know what went with the rest of them, but I know they never halted a single rebel. I wish I could see some of those Yanks today. I would ask them what sort of a varmint the rebel was.

I see in the Veteran that the regiment starts the 10th of April and lasts four days. Something good, boys! I have never known one to last more than three days. I hope I can get to go. If I do I can tell you something when I get back.

The pastor, Rev. Leland Moore, will hereafter, until further notice, preach a sermon each third Sunday especially adapted to young life. All the children of the church, and any others who will do so, will be urged to attend, and the aim will be to make the services for the young people of the church and community of tremendous significance. Parents are requested to urge their children to attend.

One feature of these regular monthly services will be the part the children themselves will take in them. Special music each time will add to the services also.

Those who attend next Sunday will listen to a helpful message, and will enjoy the part taken by the younger member of the congregation. Everybody is extended a most hearty welcome.

THREE FARM AID BILLS ARE REPORTED

ONE MEASURE PROVIDES FOR $100,000,000 FARMERS' AND CONSUMERS' CORPORATION.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Three more farm aid measures reached the house today, the agricultural committee reporting the Sinclair bill, providing for a $100,000,000 government farm and consumers' finance corporation, and the Little and Christopher bills designed to stabilize the value of agricultural products.

The Sinclair bill would create a corporation made up of the secretary of agriculture and two others to be named by the president, with the purpose of eliminating commissions exacted on agricultural products and "increasing the price the producer receives and decreasing the cost to the consumer."

Purchase, storage and sale of wheat by the secretary of agriculture, in order to stabilize its price would be authorized by the Little bill. The Christopher bill would set up an American stabilization commission composed of the secretaries of agriculture, labor and commerce, which would be authorized to purchase and store wheat, rye, flax, oats, buckwheat, corn, rice, grain, sugar and wool.

A drive was begun today by leaders of the farm bloc to force immediate consideration of agricultural credits legislation in the house.

Representative Dowell, republican, of Iowa, began the movement by circulating a petition demanding that legislation pending before the banking committee be brought out.

"We are going to have a showdown on the whole program of rural credits legislation," Mr. Dowell declared. "It has been promised to the farmers and we are going to see that they get it if there is any possible way to do so."

He said that if necessary a motion would be made to discharge the banking committee from further consideration of the measures.

The petition did not indicate preference between the Lenroot-Anderson and the Capper bills, both pending before the committee.

ERADICATION OF LYNCHING IS SEEN

ONE-FOURTH AS MANY VICTIMS NOW AS 30 YEARS AGO—AREA ALSO STEADILY SHRINKS.

That the lynching evil is steadily being reduced, both as to number and area, and that its eradication is only a matter of years, is the substance of a statement given out by the Commission of Interracial Co-operation as the result of a careful study of the lynching record for the past forty years.

During that period, the statement points out, lynchings have occurred in forty-four states, in as many as thirty-three in a single year, (1892), and in an average of twenty-one states a year, whereas in 1921 only thirteen states had lynchings and in 1922 only ten. This indicates that the habit is being gradually pushed off the map.

The number of victims also has steadily decreased with slight variations from the high mark of 225 in 1892 to 67 last year, the latter figure being only about half the annual average for the forty year period, which was 109. In addition, it is pointed out that there has been a notable decrease in the lynching habit in the states where it has been most prevalent. The record represents a decrease of 27 per cent from the forty-year annual average of 79 for the same ten states.

The figures for certain states where special efforts have been made to curb lynchings are cited as particularly encouraging in their assurance that the habit can be overcome when public sentiment and law unite against it. For example, Alabama, with a yearly average of eight lynchings for the forty years has cut the number to two. Tennessee, with an average of six, had but two last year, and a total of only five in the last four years. Oklahoma and South Carolina, each with an average of four, had but one each in 1922. Louisiana, with an average of nine, has cut the record to three. North Carolina, Virginia, Missouri and Kentucky, each averaging from two to five victims per year for forty years past, had not a single one in 1922.

It was pointed out that in several states special legislation has been enacted and found very helpful in curbing lynching, among the most effective measures being a state constabulary under the control of the governor, as in Alabama and Tennessee, and a provision for the removal of officers who surrender prisoners to mobs, as in Alabama, Kentucky and South Carolina. These two measures consistently applied, says the statement, will make it possible for any state to reduce lynching to the vanishing point.

SEVENTY-SEVEN GUESTS AT AD CLUB DINNER

FARMERS RESPOND TO INVITATION TO HEAR TALKS ON AGRICULTURE.

Seventy-seven farmers accepted the invitation from members of the Statesboro Advertising Club and were guests Monday evening at a banquet in the dining hall of the First District Agricultural School building.

The occasion was planned to give opportunity to hear addresses upon two important phases of agriculture, one on the control of the boll weevil by R. J. H. DeLoach, and the other upon dairying and allied industries by C. H. Bishop, a farmer of Turner county. That these two subjects are recognized as live ones was made plain by the responses to the invitations which were sent out during the week. Incidentally, the announcement that there would be a delightful spread for the guests and that sociability would prevail, was an added attraction and was not the least of the features according to many of those present. Besides seventy-seven visitors, there were fifty-four members of the Advertising Club present, making a total attendance of 131—the largest gathering yet fostered by the club.

Mr. Bishop, who spoke first, presented in an interesting manner the conditions of the farmers of Turner county since they have turned their attention so largely to the production of cream and the growing of chickens. He was enthusiastic over the conditions there, and advised the Bulloch county farmers to begin without delay to produce cream. It is not necessary, he declared, to make a heavy investment in dairy cattle. What ever cows the farmer may have, will do for a start, and better cows can be added as conditions permit.

Mr. DeLoach spoke at considerable length on the subject of boll weevil control, and gave some valuable information from an expert viewpoint. He declared that the most practical method of combating the weevil is through the use of calcium arsenate, and gave it as his experience that there were dozens and dozens of answers to the question, "What to do?" One mistake, he said, of the farmer is that they apply it frequently at the wrong period. After the weevils lay their eggs, he said, they die. It is then fifteen days before another family of weevils appear. Poison applied between these periods is wasted. He said that every farmer ought to make a study of the conditions of his cotton before applying his poison, so that he may make intelligent application of the poison at the time it would do the greatest good.

Besides the talks by Messrs. DeLoach and Bishop, President J. I. Renfro of the Advertising Club and Congressman-elect R. Lee Moore made short talks.

The dinner, which was a most delightful one, was served by the domestic science department of the Agricultural School under the direction of Miss Bruce, the domestic science instructor.

There were twenty prizes, the first and nearest correct answers took the money. It was a rather tedious work for a person to take a full page of advertisements and read them over carefully each week and note the omitted words. Indeed, it was sometimes difficult to determine where a word might have been omitted. As proof of this, many of those who submitted lists indicated three times as many words as were really missing. The young man who won first prize submitted a list of 84 for the four weeks. In reality there were only 38 correct missing words. The young man only discovered 10 of these. The other 23 he never found, though he did make 74 that were not missing. While young Mr. Lee was finding 10 correct words and 74 others that were not missing, those who won the other prizes found even fewer of the correct words. Some 8 and others 7. However, they pointed out a large number of other words which they believed had been intentionally omitted, but which had not been.

As stated, the total number of correct missing words was 38. There were omitted from the list of the four weeks as follows: January 25th, 12 words; February 1st, 10 words; February 8th, 6 words; February 15th, 7 words.

It may be interesting to state that young Homer Simmons, who won the last place on the list, did so only through having mailed his answers Saturday afternoon instead of waiting till Monday to do so. Another answer received early Monday morning from Miss Clara Raad told him for the prize, but young Mr. Simmons won by being the first to get his answer in.

Mr. Clifton Fordham, who inaugurated the contest and procured the advertisements for the page, has exercised every care to see that every party concerned has been given a square deal, both advertisers and contestants. He has mailed the prizes, and if they have not already been received by the winners, they are now in the mails.

At a special call meeting of city council today to investigate the accusations against Driggers, the chief of police denied all the allegations set out in the affidavit. The hearing was concluded with a verdict of "not guilty" for Driggers. A verdict of "not guilty" for Driggers was reached after one of the members of council declared: "We know Chief Driggers and when he makes a statement we believe it is true."

Mr. Driggers is a former resident of Bulloch county, having resided in the vicinity of Clito until a few years ago he went to Florida. He and his brother S. H. Driggers are both residents of Kissimmee, which is one of Florida's growing cities.

Mitchell School.

Fifth and Sixth Grades Have Spelling Contest

The following is a letter received by Mr. J. W. Davis, telling about the spelling contest between the fifth and sixth grades of the Mitchell school: Pembroke, Ga., Feb. 14, 1923.
Mr. J. W. Davis,
Statesboro, Ga.
Dear Mr. Davis:

We had the spelling contest Friday afternoon. When we had spelled one hundred words we had tied and so we spelled about fifteen more words. The fifth grade missed one and we won the spelling match.

We were very pleased at winning just one word more but the fifth grade girls were very disappointed. Yours truly,
DAN FUTCH.

—Porter School.

LEEFIELD SCHOOL.
New Books Are Added To Leefield School Library.

Twenty classics have been added to our school library this year and we hope next to have a Bible and a dictionary.

Valentine Day was celebrated and it was a happy occasion.

The following are those who made 100 per cent in the spelling examination recently given by our county school superintendent, Mr. J. W. Davis: Lorene Bradley, Earle Lee, Lucille Clark, Dabie Hagan, Bernice Lee, Olin Minick, Myrtle Scott and Ulmer Knight.

Several drawings, maps and charts have been sent to Mr. Davis from our school. Later others will be sent.

The epidemic of influenza which was in our community recently caused us to suspend school for a week. The pupils are gradually resuming their school duties and it is probable that we shall have the fourth teacher again.

A number of the high school pupils desire to enter the Sea Island Bank essay contest which closes Thursday, February 22nd. As all those interested were agreed that only one contest would draw for the place and the one drawing a certain number would have the honor of representing our school in this contest.

The pupils are enjoying the seats that have been made for our school grounds and our boys are also enjoying their new base ball outfit.

We are soon to begin our window boxes and we are also planning to plant several more trees.

PORTAL SCHOOL NEWS.
Double Header Basket Ball Game Played.

Our double header basket ball game with Register was returned and the results were much more favorable to us than before, as our boys and girls were the winners.

The boys played Norwood High and the girls played the winners. The game between the A. & M. girls and our girls was full of pep but we were slightly defeated. In the game with the Statesboro High School girls we were not equally matched with them.

We are not discouraged and are hoping to make ourselves stronger opponents in the near future.

The grammar grade pupils are arranging flower gardens. They are working very hard and are planning for early results.

The literary societies which were organized throughout the school are doing good work. Interesting programs are given and the members are very enthusiastic.

Our boys and girls are having some fun with the duties of officers. We had a Georgia Day program at which time the Sanford-Brown society enjoyed a splendid talk on Georgia and its founder by Prof. Denmark.

Correct English Club is planting tomato seeds to have early plants ready for sale. The funds raised will be used for school improvement.

BROOKLET HIGH SCHOOL.
The parent-teachers' association held the regular meeting Thursday afternoon, February 1st. At this meeting plans were made to give an oyster supper Friday night, the 16th, for the benefit of the school.

Mr. M. S. Brannen, of Pretoria, was a welcomed spend-the-day visitor last Wednesday.

News of Tison Grove School Told by the Students ...

EIGHTH GRADE.
Cooking.
We could not cook for several days as the stove was out of order, but it has been fixed now and we hope to make up for lost time.

So far we have cooked biscuits, grape pudding, eggs, (parched, fried and scrambled), and made gelatin (lemon and grape).

A. C. L.
On Friday, January 12th, we organized the A. C. L. (Anti-Cigarette League). We had our first party on January 19th at the home of Mr. T. Y. Atkins. Many school children and friends were present.

Several garments have been made in sewing this year. In this work note books are kept in which are shown the different kinds of various kinds of work done during the year. This is very interesting work.

Sewing Note Books.
During the last four days our work has been partial payments. At first the problems were rather hard but we can now solve them with ease.

Arithmetic.
The high school has been reading classics in connection with the English work. These read are Scott's "Tartan" and "Lady of the Lake", Eliot's "Silas Marner", Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar", "As You Like It", "The Tempest", and "Merchant of Venice". We like "Silas Marner" best because it is so true to life.

Some of the books were subjects for written compositions, some were discussed in class, and with some the favorite characters were subjects for oral composition. This was a very delightful study.

School Parties.
Two school parties have been given during this term. Miss Sara Cason of the ninth grade entertained with a cane grinding Friday evening, November 24th, and Miss Eileen Brannen of the eighth grade entertained December 1st with a cane grinding. Each of these parties was given in honor of the grade making the best general average during the month.

Stories of "Achilles" and "Ulysses". The seventh grade has been studying the prescribed book in geography, agriculture and English and are now reviewing. They have read "The Courtship of Miles Standish" by Longfellow; "A Man Without a Country" by Hale; "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" by Irving, and are now reading, "Evangelical" by Longfellow.

Games are an attractive part of our school life. We have two volleyball teams, one for each room. We also play dodge ball, and on rainy days we have lots of fun playing hide-the-ball.

There are two literary societies in the school and each one has a program every two weeks.

The sixth and seventh grades have enjoyed debating with each other several times. The winners enjoy this especially.

MILL CREEK SCHOOL.
Some of the boys who are talented in construction work are building a miniature of Mill Creek school house. The other pupils are collecting data and later all pupils will write a history of the school. When the work is finished the history and the miniature building will be on exhibition in the county school superintendent's office.

(Note: This is splendid, I like the plan. Superintendent.)

CLITO SCHOOL.
We had a pleasant visit from Supt. Davis on the sixth of February, and were delighted to have him come again on the twelfth and bring the teachers' training class of the First District A. & M. School to observe our work.

Song, Georgia Land—By school.
Address, Construction of Georgia—By principal.
Interesting Facts About Georgia—By Beatrice Waters.

Georgia Quiz—By school.
Song, Georgia School Song.
Our school is planning an entertainment on the 15th of February. The proceeds are to be used for improvement of the school.

The seventh and eighth grades took a test set out by Mr. Davis last week. They are working hard to pass the strict examination at the close of school.

We are organizing a "Health and Manners" club, which is to be a contest between the pupils. A prize is to be awarded to the one who has the highest number of points. We are hoping that during our remaining six weeks of school the children will be greatly benefited by this club.

THE TEACHER'S PRAYER.
Julia H. Doyle, Public School 11, Manhattan New York.
Give me, but childhood's steps to guide
Along the path of Truth;
Let me but place her shining torch
Within the hands of youth;
Go, Fame and Fortune, where you will,
I'll hold you ever kind,
If to my lot it fall to train
Sweet childhood's heart and mind.
Give me to make my daily task
A song of love and praise;
Let me inspire the soul of youth
To follow Wisdom's way;
Be mine a strong and cheerful heart,
A purpose undented,
That I may every worthy be
To teach a little child.
Give me to sow the seed of peace;
Let me enkindle hearts of fire,
To be awarded to the one who has the most points. We are hoping that during our remaining six weeks of school the children will be greatly benefited by this club.

SNAP SCHOOL INVENTS WASTE PAPER CONTAINER.
The Snap School has a novel waste paper container made from a large sack and a wooden stick. One side of the bag at the top is fastened to the stick which holds it open and the stick is pulled in the center to close, leaving the sack suspended from the stick and open at the top, ready to receive the waste paper.

Note—A suggestion for improving this container is that a barrel hoop be used instead of the stick; fasten the top of the sack to the barrel hoop all around and nail one side of the hoop to a tree.

ALDERMAN SCHOOL.
We have been having some interesting debates at school recently, and the children are looking forward to another one soon.

My Favorite Bird.
I like the mocking bird best because it sings so sweetly. It sings the songs of all the other birds. How pleasant it is to awake and hear its song near my window.

The mocking bird is not very large. It is black, gray and white. It builds its nest in an apple tree, a peach tree, or some other tree that is not very tall. In the nest the mother bird lays four small eggs which are guarded very carefully. The food of the mocking bird is berries, insects, worms and fruits.

Fire Destroys the Smiths.
Allen Deal School House.
Monday morning, January 22nd, about 10 o'clock the Smith-Allen Deal school house was destroyed by fire.

The fire started in the roof and it is supposed to have caught from the stove fire which was the swinging type.

The furniture was saved. Until a few years ago this was considered among the best of the teacher school buildings in the county.

The school was suspended only one week when it was re-opened in a large house that had been used for a residence and every effort is being made to keep the work up to the standard and give the children the full year's work in spite of the fire.

TRANSPORTATION QUESTION IS SOLVED BY SEVERAL SCHOOLS.
In several of the rural schools a number of children who live three or four miles from the school house are being transported in ox carts.

There are fourteen children in the Martin school riding to school in four ox carts and a number of children are riding to the Denmark school in ox carts. There was a crippled boy in the Harrell school who was unable to walk and he had no way to ride. He persuaded his father to break an ox and make a cart for him and since then he has been a regular attendant at school. He is riding in his ox cart to the Denmark school this year.

The waterfalls, the wind and the sun are being harnessed to aid in the development of the great natural resources of our country. Then why not harness the ox to aid in the development of our country's greatest resources—its boys and girls?

CARD OF THANKS.
We thank this method of thanking the good people and friends of our community who so willingly helped us in the sickness and death of our dear mother, and also the good nurses and good doctor at the hospital in Statesboro; and also the good undertaker who so willingly helped us in the death and burial, too. ## OBITUARY.

On the evening of February 15th, 1923, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Nesmith and took away the spirit of J. W. Denmark.

He was born January 12, 1849, and died February 15, 1923. He leaves a heart-broken wife and a large family of children and grandchildren.

His wife, Mrs. Charlie Lee, was born in Denmark; seven daughters, Mrs. F. M. Nesmith, Mrs. Tom S. Dan Denmark, and one son, Mr. J. W. Denmark.

He was a kind and loving husband; he loved his wife and children. He and his wife united with the Primitive Baptist church at Upper Black Creek thirty years ago and were buried by W. W. Riner.

We had several prayers and benedictions said for him, but he could not answer. We felt to us that. Thus we had to feel the great sadness caused by the loss of God's gift when we so much needed His help. After death had come and it seemed to us that we could not live under the great grief that took possession of our poor hearts. He died with cancer of the stomach and two nurses and loving hands of good neighbors could do, could we keep him with us, as God saw fit to take him home and He knoweth all things best. He will rest and not mourn.

He knew everything up to a few minutes before he died. He talked of going home all the time; and there was a better place for him. He asked to be put out all the lights in the room and said that he was going home; that there were plenty of lights where he was going.

He was laid to rest on the 17th of February, 1923, in Upper Black Creek cemetery. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Davis, pastor of the church, in the presence of a large crowd of relatives and friends.

"Th hard to break the tender cord When love has bound the heart. 'Tis hard, so hard to speak the words 'Must we forever part.'"

Written by his heart-broken wife and children and grandchildren.
KATIE NESMITH.

DECEIVED BY STABLE SCENT

Probably Green Will Never Know Why He Failed to Make a Firm Friend of Jones.

It was one night that Jones had given over to the whims of his wife and this particular evening she had decided to visit the Greens on the hill. Now, Jones distilled Green for some reason, but Green insisted on cultivating his friendship for business reasons, so whenever they met Green would solemn low and strive in every way to win the pleasure of his neighbor.

When Jones arrived this evening, every attention was given them, according to a New York Sun writer. The more attention to any topic would set direct into a stream of eloquence, and for some reason or other Green picked on the discussion of horses. He talked on the subject from colts to old mares and from foals to trotters and mares were delivered into at great length. Histories were recited and the discourse fairly reeked with facts and figures.

When Jones' wife made a good play at being extremely interested and listened intently for several hours after they had gone down to bed, Jones' wife was not at all certain to win him over when I present my proposition to him. And do you know how I did it? I requested the aid of an expert about ten or so, as the steps through the door and I talked horses to him all the time. Pretty clever, eh?

On their way home Mrs. Jones remarked, "I wonder why Mr. Green persisted in talking horses? Evidently he does not know that you are not interested in animals of any kind."

"I wonder myself why he tried to talk me dead on that fool subject," mused Jones, as he stepped on the necessary and shot at him over a railroad crossing, swearing softly that Green never could interest him in any dead one. "Unless he happened to get a whiff of my soap mance cure I'm putting on my soap to keep my hair in and thought I was a riding master, or something," he added.

Tuberculosis Preventable

If tuberculosis is preventable, why then is it not prevented? Are the thousands who are to die during the coming year worth the saving? If so, then, should we not think it a terrible thing? If the treatment is simply hygiene, is it not strange that we are not willing to live hygienically until after we have contracted the disease?

If 200,000 people die annually of tuberculosis in the United States, and an equal number are cured of the disease by sleeping and living in the open air, why would it not have been better for them to have lived and slept in the open air before they got sick, and thus have avoided the disease? If sleeping and living in the open air is good for the sick, why is it not good for the well? Is it not better to stay well than to be cured of tuberculosis?

If typhoid fever is preventable, why then is it not prevented? The prevention of typhoid is not a matter of days or weeks; it is a matter of only a question of public and personal sanitation. Why swallow the germ at all, and if it must be swallowed, why swallow it first by boiling or otherwise?

If smallpox is preventable, why then is it not completely prevented? It is not completely prevented because it is still contagious, and is no longer a question of medical science; it is one of personal hygiene.

If syphilis and other venereal diseases are preventable, why then are they not prevented? They are caused by specific germs, and no one need become infected with these germs unless he takes the precaution of securing the prevention of this class of diseases is no longer a question of medical science; it is one of personal hygiene.

The Lord of creation has given man dominion over the world and the fullness thereof, which includes the choice of good and evil and incidentally the means of life and death.

MISS LEILA BUNCE SPEAKS THROUGH RADIO (Atlanta Journal.)

Clothing, health and psychology are the eminently practical topics to be discussed briefly Friday night by the two speakers conducting the 7 o'clock WSB Radio university—Miss Leila Bunce, teacher of home economics, Fulton High School, and W. F. Milburn, district manager of the Advertisers company.

Miss Bunce, speaking by appointment of Miss Clara Lee Cone, head of the home economics department, Girls' school, follows up the splendid series inaugurated by Miss Cone and will tell the university circles some fundamentally important facts concerning the relation of proper clothing to good health. This is the fourth feature of the series on clothing.

Mr. Milburn, a young business expert, who delivered an immensely interesting address on the Journal's educational course some weeks ago, will have something of particular value to ambitious salesmen, sales managers and others who realize what present-day psychology means.

His subject will be "Psychology in Salesmanship." The speaker is entirely informal in his delivery, speaks from a background of extended study, active experience and emphatic success.

WILL GROW COTTON DESPITE THE WEEVIL

D'LOACH OUTLINES METHOD BY WHICH TO SUCCESSFULLY COMBAT THE INSECT.

D. G. Bickers, of the Savannah Morning News editorial department was a visitor in Statesboro last week on the occasion of the meeting of farmers with the Statesboro Advertising Club. He heard the address of Prof. R. J. H. DeLoach before that gathering, and upon returning home he wrote of it in his paper as follows:

Prof. DeLoach told his neighbors something of how he came to be intimately connected with farming in Georgia at the present time—having been assigned by the Armour people to the management of a 3,000-acre farm at Arlington. He said that the farm is being run under the usual conditions, with negro tenants. He said:

"There are no such thing as elimination, eradication of the pest, the boll weevil. We may as well recognize that what we have to do to control the weevil—and for the years to come we are to be under that necessity. Get all the cows and raise all the pigs and have all the chickens you can—then you'll have to grow cotton in Bulloch county for the reasons I have suggested. Then you must either grow it for the weevil to eat or beat the weevil. You will be merely running a first class boarding house for the weevil unless you find out how to prevent the parasite from sponging on you and countering all your effort and investment and expenditure. Prepare to grow cotton this year—and right now learn how to control the weevil and prepare for that fight—and you can grow cotton here as well as I did last year at Arlington and I expect to do this year. I shall not tell you about preparation, about fertilization, about cultivation. Those elements are important factors, but you know them. The one problem for me to tell you about is the fight on the weevil. We are up against this problem. Forty thousand farm title papers changes hands in Georgia, according to one authority, in 1921 and 1922—more than in a period of fifteen years prior to those years. It is for us to tackle the job and step faster than the weevil can step."

Mr. DeLoach then laid down the fundamental proposition that the only way to control the weevil is with calcium arsenate, and he outlined his experiences demonstrating that using the poison in dry form has been successful. He would not say that other methods will not work—he knew his method has worked. The Florida method, he said, was but a variation of the method he used—the difference being that the application was made of the poison at a different period of the plant's development.

He said that the whole problem of control is mostly hard work—with the arsenate as the poison to use. It is at least sixty-five per cent work that counts—the method may amount to the other 35 per cent. He recommended calcium arsenate only and the use of it as a dry application. From North Carolina to Texas, he said, the powdered application has proved its efficiency. He said that the secret of efficient work in controlling the weevil is in the thoroughness of application of arsenate—with plenty of painstaking hard work just at the right time. He learned from experience that powdered arsenate can be dusted over the plants top soon to do any good—and labor and poison wasted; or it may be applied too late with like futile results.

The method he used first was to implement, home-made, an ordinary syringe with both ends cut out and a stick handle attached, a crocus sack fastened over one end of the can—through which sack the dry powder was dusted upon the plants. He tried several other cloths and found the crocus sack better in every way. Negro hands went through the fields and dusted the plants thoroughly with this simple apparatus, using from one to several pounds of powder to the acre—as necessary; the dusting being done just when the squares were beginning to form on the plants. He explained why this is the time—

JOE JENKINS GUILTY; GETS THREE YEARS

VOLUNTARY MANSLAUGHTER IS VERDICT HANDED OUT BY THE JURY FRIDAY NIGHT.

Joe Jenkins a white man who fled to Colorado after the killing of "Cot" Jones, an aged negro at Millhaven last December, and who was later traced to that state by Sheriff B. T. Mallard, of this county, and captured, returning him to the Screven authorities, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in Screven superior court at Sylvania Friday night. He was immediately sentenced to serve from one to three years, the sentence recommended in the jury's verdict.

The jury took the case at 7:30 o'clock and reached the verdict after three hours deliberation.

Statements by Jenkins and his companion, Miss Munnally, featured the morning session. The evidence was completed at 1:45 p. m., and the court allowed both sides two and one-half hours each to argue the case.

The defendant's statement was spoken in a very low tone, and could hardly be heard beyond the jury box. He attributed the killing to the alleged "insolent manner characteristic to the negro" and declared that the fight was started after Jones had cursed him.

"When my car stuck in the mud, I called upon Jones for help," the defendant stated. "While we were trying to get the car out he cursed me. When I started to reply, he drew a knife and cut at me several times. I then shot him, but he kept on fighting. We fell in a ditch and he cut me across the arm." Jenkins' coat, with a cut sleeve, was offered in evidence at this juncture.

Nunnally, who was with Jenkins during the killing but who remained in the car during the fight, confirmed Jenkins' statement in the main. He stated that Jones cursed Jenkins and that this started the fight.

Several witnesses were put on the stand by the defense to prove the good character of the defendant. The defense also introduced several witnesses who swore that the negro who was slain, was ill-tempered and generally disliked.

BREWTON MAN FOUND WITH THROAT CUT

Dublin, Feb. 27.—J. C. Maddox, a white man from Brewton, Lawrence county, ten miles from Dublin, was found dead in his lodging house at New Orleans, La., Monday, according to information received by his father, H. F. Maddox, of Dublin.

According to information received here, the landlord found the door of Maddox's room locked and finally forced entrance in the morning. He found with his head nearly severed from his body with a razor.

Authorities at New Orleans were inclined to believe it was suicide, but his family here believes he was murdered for his money, it being understood he had carried a good-sized roll with him.

Maddox was 30 years of age, was a veteran of the World War, and was in business at Metter until a few months ago, when he sold out and disappeared, no one knowing where he was until news of his death in New Orleans was received.
